Simplified Grain Quality Checks Revolutionize Indian Agriculture Industry

ENHANCED BY Google

In a groundbreaking development, Sohan Lal Commodity Management (SLCM) Group has introduced “Krishi Quality Janch Kendra,” a state-of-the-art technology-driven solution aimed at simplifying and enhancing food grain quality checks in India. With the launch of 31 centers across Delhi and Madhya Pradesh, SLCM is set to transform the agriculture industry by integrating physical centers with digitization.

Krishi Quality Janch Kendra is an extension of SLCM's Agri Reach QC module, leveraging AI and ML capabilities. It is the first-ever NABL-accredited food grain QC mobile app, paving the way for seamless quality checks in the agricultural sector. This innovative platform not only streamlines quality assurance processes but also offers warehousing management solutions and serves as a third-party platform connecting commodity buyers and sellers.

By reducing the need for farmers and traders to travel long distances and spend significant amounts of time at testing centers, Krishi Quality Janch Kendra addresses the challenges faced by stakeholders in quality checking. This initiative ensures fair prices for farmers, promotes food security, and saves valuable time and money.

Sandeep Sabharwal, Founder and CEO of SLCM, highlighted the importance of this milestone and its potential impact on the Indian agriculture industry. He emphasized the need to bridge the technological gap for farmers and traders, while also focusing on maximizing the benefits for all stakeholders. The introduction of Krishi Quality Janch Kendra marks a significant step in transforming the way crops are valued, empowering farmers to better understand the true value of their produce and secure the best prices.

Looking ahead, SLCM plans to expand its network by establishing over 600 Krishi Quality Janch Kendra centers across 200 locations in India, covering a wider range of farmers and agricultural communities. This expansion will democratize access to quality checking facilities, supporting farmers nationwide in realizing the full potential of their agricultural produce.

By revolutionizing grain quality checks and integrating technology into the agriculture industry, SLCM is driving a transformative shift that promises to benefit farmers, traders, and the entire Indian agricultural community. This innovative approach streamlines processes, promotes fairness, and ultimately ensures the sustainability and growth of the sector.
